This jolly annual event is not to be missed, with great food, fun socializing and great speakers. It is a perfect way to kick off the winter ADK season!

PROGRAM: ADK WINTER MOUNTAINEERING SCHOOL

Presented by Aaron Slosman and Len Pratt

The ADK Winter Mountaineering School is non-profit group that has been sponsored for 61 years by the Adirondack Mountain Club. The program educates and promotes enjoyable winter mountaineering and camping through a learn-by-doing approach. "Past participants have included three-season hikers and backpackers looking to expand their skills to include winter hiking and camping. Others are more experienced skiers and winter mountaineers who wish to refine their skills. Our friendly, experienced, all-volunteer staff, and pricing make the ADK Winter Mountaineering School the best value in the Northeast for learning winter skills. We offer day trip, weekend and week-long backpacking options."

If you are interested in attending ADK Winter Mountaineering School workshops, our local chapter offers scholarships (see below). Several program options take place in the Adirondacks between 1/29/15 and 2/4 15 (see adk.org for details). If you do not attend the workshop, it is still invigorating to learn about these winter wilderness opportunities.

Aaron Slosman is an ADK member and has been an Instructor at the ADK Winter School for four years. He is a four-season backpacker/camper and also enjoys hiking, snowshoeing, cross country and downhill skiing, and paddling. He also mentors Boy Scouts on high adventure programs, and gives leadership training to adult volunteers.

Len Pratt is also an ADK member and WMS Instructor, and has enjoyed hiking, backpacking, hunting and fishing the Adirondacks for the past 45 years. He is also President of the Niagara Frontier Search and Rescue Team that provides DEC search support in Western NY and the Adirondacks.

MISSED THE NOVEMBER MEETING? NOVEMBER PROGRAM REVIEW: JASON BRINER

An engaged audience of 82 was transported to the Arctic under the guidance of our excellent December speaker Jason Briner, Greenland Ice sheet researcher and Associate Professor from the UB Geology Department. Jason's fascinating presentation was well suited for our diverse audience, with breathtaking photos artfully mixed with short videos, cutting edge research and captivating stories about working in the Arctic.

Jason's talk was educational and inspiring. He explained why the Arctic is warming at a faster rate than the rest of the planet, and gave a factual overview on global warming and rising sea levels. He shared the details of his personal journey into glacier research, and through his stories Jason conveyed the attraction of carrying out innovative and exciting research. We learned about the requirements and demands of doing research in the Arctic, like being transported in an Air Force C-130 plane and local helicopter, and the feeling of serenity once your means of transportation departs. Jason conveyed the simplicity and joys of the group dynamic focused on a common research goal, and the challenges of staying warm and coping with the elements. It was impressive to hear about their creative and yummy food options despite the harsh climate setting.

We are grateful to Jason for sharing his time and experiences with us for this extremely enriching and exhilarating evening.

TRIP REPORTS

10/26 Halloween Paddle & Party

17 heart paddlers gathered to get another trip in under an overcast sky. With a cool temperature and breezy conditions, we canoed and kayaked with the wind through the flood zone that is situated next to the Amherst Bike Path. At the I-990 Hwy. Bridge, we turned into the traditional Ellicott Creek as it winds its way back west. There was still some colorful Autumn foliage and the paddling was made easier by being protected from the wind by tree lined banks. Some of the paddlers were dressed in Halloween costumes lending a festive atmosphere to the proceedings. It was a relatively quick paddle, but most of us were anxious to get on with the indoor party part of the program. The party was a great opportunity to renew acquaintances and to create some new connections. The paddlers were joined by a few new participants. We all enjoyed some hot and cold beverages and a wonderful potluck supper. For many of us, this event is the unofficial end of the paddling season. It gives us an opportunity to share our experiences of the past year and to anticipate what we will do next year. Submitted by: Richard & Mary Schraven

11/8/14 Niagara Gorge / Artpark Hike

On a windy and overcast day, 17 of us met at Artpark. As we headed into the gorge it was decided to take the Lower Fisherman's Trail. Previously that trail had dead ended at the Lewiston/Queenston Bridge but there were rumors of a new connecting trail. It was decided to explore and see what was there. About 10 minutes into the hike we passed a large group of about 50 geology students from Cincinnati.

When you hike the gorge it is always easier to see the power of the river from the lower trails. As we hiked we saw many fisherman looking to hook into the trout which were running. Over 30 boats were working the back eddies of the river close to Artpark hoping to hook in the famous Steelhead Trout.

The trail from the bridge to the Power Authority has been greatly improved and is a pleasure to hike. Upon reaching the top of the gorge we said farewell to a number of the group who had other plans they had to attend to. The balance of the group headed to Devils Hole and then across the road to Niagara University.

Our Lunch break was taken at the beautiful Castellani Art Museum. After a quick tour of the artwork we headed back to the gorge. Our route back took us on a railroad bed, through a tunnel, jumping an embankment, crossing a road and finally backtracking to Devils Hole. After that it was all back down hill to the parking lot.

It was a fantastic time seeing old friends and making new ones. We had hikers from St Catherines and Pittsburgh joining us on the trip. I hope everyone enjoyed it as much as I did. Submitted by: Mike Promowicz

10/16 - 10/19 Susquehannock Lodge 2014 Fall Weekend

Nine participants enjoyed our ADK Fall trip to the Susquehannock Lodge in PA, the weekend of October 16-19, 2014. For the first time in a few years, the fall foliage was spectacular. Three participants took advantage of the added Thursday arrival, which allowed us to check out a couple of new locations for future reference. The group enjoyed hiking the Susquehannock State Forest, and some participants also explored Pine Creek, Lyman Run State Park, and the PA Lumber Museum. Highlights of the trip included bald eagle and other bird sightings, spectacular views, great company, and of course, the excellent food and accommodations at the lodge. Submitted by: Ed &
